Grayling wildlife artist gains more acclaim with award of excellence

A Grayling art gallery owner and wildlife artist has been recognized with a prestigious award from an international association of artists.

Kim Diement was presented an Award of Excellence at the opening for the 52nd annual Art and the Animal 2012 exhibit for the Society of Animal Artists held at The Hiram Blauvelt Art Museum in Oradell, NJ.

The Society of Animal Artists draws upon the artistic talent of over 500 members from Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, and North and South America. Combining natural history and fine art in creative ways, the annual exhibition is juried by distinguished experts.

The annual exhibition features over 120 works and represents some of the finest work done in this artistic genre. A selection from the exhibit will be part of a touring display, which will be featured at The Art Museum at the University of Kentucky, Kenosha Public Museum in Kenosha, WI, and the Charles H. MacNider Art Museum in Mason City, Iowa.

The Society of Animal Artists, which was founded in 1960, has three tiers of membership. Artists who first join the organization are given associate status. Members, whose work has been selected for three Society of Animal Artists shows, are recognized with a signature member status. And artists who have received five awards of excellence are granted master signature status.

Diement, who has had her work in five Society of Animal Artists exhibits, was humbled to receive her first Award of Excellence.

"Sometimes, some of the members don't even get one in their lifetime," Diement said.

Some of the icons in the art field that Diement looked up to as a child have achieved the status of master signature artists.

The late Don Ekelberry and late Roger Tory Peterson, who was known for the Peterson bird guides and field guides, are master signature artists.

"He's well renowned for that," Diement said.

Roger Bateman, who is among the 11 living master signature artists in the Society of Animal Artists, is another key figure Diement has followed.

"If you're in the wildlife art, everybody knows who Roger Bateman is," Diement said. "He's big in conservation, he does a lot of workshops and his shows normally sell out. To me, he was one of the gurus of gurus when it comes to painting animals."

Diement won the award of excellence for a commissioned painting she did of a Serval.

In a book for the Society of Animal Artists' Art and the Animal 2012 exhibit, Diement described Servals, as stunning cats, which are found throughout Africa. Two common color phases exist amongst Servals. The phase - "Servitude" - is a typically marked Serval with distinctive stripes on the neck and back. The other phase involves a smaller grayer colored cat. It is called a Servaline or "Small Spotted Serval." Its spots are less distinctive and lack some of the striping. It was at one time thought to be its own distinct species. However, it has been established that this is not the case even though the Servaline tends to inhabit more western parts of Africa.

A most moving memory for Diement in Kenya was a trip through the Aberdares Mountains.

Jewelry thieves facing charges

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Frederic Township residents played a crucial role in catching a Charlevoix couple accused of stealing jewelry from the Grayling Kmart.

Jessie Paul Rosamilia, 26, and Jeannine Louise Kewagshken, 23, were arraigned in Crawford County District Court on Monday. Rosamilia was charged with burglar's tools possession, stolen property-receiving and concealing $1,000 but not more than $20,000, larceny-$1,000 or more but less than $20,000, controlled substance-possession of analogues and police officer-assaulting, resisting and obstructing. Prosecutors are also seeking to have Rosamilia sentenced as a habitual offender second or subsequent conviction.

Kewagshken was charged with burglar's tools possession, stolen property-receiving and concealing $1,000 but not more than $20,000, larceny-$1,000 or more but less than $20,000.

The couple face up to 10 years in prison, if convicted. They remain in the Crawford County Jail in lieu of posting $100,000 cash or surety bonds.

Crawford County Sheriff Kirk A. Wakefield said officers were called to Kmart at 3:01 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 26, regarding the larceny of a large amount of jewelry.

Upon arrival, officers were advised that Todd Tompkins, a Frederic Township resident, had arrived home and discovered a suspicious vehicle parked near his residence. Tompkins said that there was a male and female in the car along with a bag full of jewelry.

Grayling Police Department officers then responded to Kmart, while deputies responded to the suspicious subject complaint.

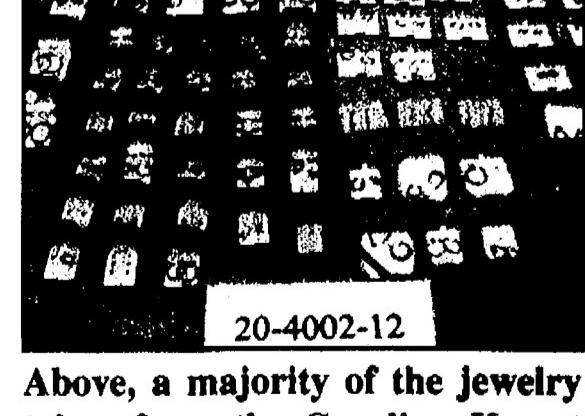

Prior to the deputy's arrival, Rosamilia attempted to flee the scene on foot, but was apprehended and detained by Tompkins and some neighbors until police arrived at the scene. Rosamilia and Kewagshken were taken into custody along with a large amount of jewelry taken from Kmart.

The case remains under investigation and could possibly be related to other recent robberies in surrounding jurisdictions, Wakefield said.

The Crawford County Sheriff's Office was assisted by the Grayling Police Department, a Michigan Department of Natural Resources Conservation Officer, the Michigan State Police Crime Lab and several concerned citizens, whose actions helped bring the case to a quick conclusion.

Wakefield reminds citizens that confronting suspicious subjects, such as in this case, can be very dangerous.

"Although the actions of these citizens was very much appreciated, showing caution, being observant and getting a detailed description to authorities can make all the difference," Wakefield said.

Above, a majority of the jewelry taken from the Grayling Kmart by a Charlevoix couple was recovered by Crawford County Sheriff's Deputy John Klepadlo.

PLEASE VOTE YES ON THE UPCOMING ROAD MILLAGE RENEWAL

The Crawford County Road Commission is asking the voters of the county to renew the current millage for Roads.

This is a 1 mil millage that generates approximately $560,000.00 per year to improve roadways under the jurisdiction of the Crawford County Road Commission; particularly roadways on the Road Commission's Primary Road system. These would be roads to include, but not limited to, North Down River Road, Hartwick Pines Road and County Road 612.

100% of the millage dollars go to road improvement projects all over Crawford County. We try to repair the worse roads first. For years the Road Commission has rated roads to determine which roads are to be worked on. The rating system takes into account deficiencies, such as pot holes, or cracking, ride ability. Traffic Count and cost to maintain the surface/mile is also factored in.

Average cost/mile for a paving project is $140,000/mile. There are currently about 40 miles of road that are in dire need of repair. This equates to about $5.6 million in today's dollars.

With the millage generating $560,000/year and State and federal dollars that are allocated to the road commission for this work, which is about $330,000/year, the road commission would have approximately $890,000/year to spend on these improvements. At $890,000/year we could accomplish this goal in 6-7 years.

If the millage is not renewed and the road commission only had the $330,000 in state and federal funds it would take 14-15 years to do the same amount of roadways, and probably longer than that because the rate of inflation would increase the cost of materials and who knows where fuel costs will be by then.

Some of these roads will not last that long, so if the funds are not there to repave the roads, the road commission would be forced to turn them back to gravel until funding was made available to pave them. This would be a major step backward. It would also mean that the road commission would have to reduce maintenance activities in order to save money to match the federal and state funds. Every project that uses state and federal funds has to be matched by the Road Commission by 20%.

I can not emphasize the importance of this millage. It's sad that our legislatures in Lansing fail to address the road funding issue. I am not sure why they do not want to do it; perhaps they feel its political suicide, perhaps they just do not know how to do it. It is their reluctance to do something that forces communities like ours to take matters in our own hands.

It is because of this millage that the Road Commission has been able to improve over 19 miles of roadway in the last 3 years alone; a total investment of $2,768,204.00.

Next year we will be working on a segment of County Road 612, from the Kalkaska county line east to Kolka Creek Road, 5.6 miles. And the Road commission will have about $500,000 remaining to work on other sections of roadways; some of those being considered are sections of Military Road, sections of County Road 612 toward Lovells, Fletcher Road and Hartwick Pines Road.

Please remember this is a renewal. I do not need to preach to you how bad the roads are; you just have to get out and drive around the county to see that. I ask that you take out your last property tax bill and see how much you are paying for the road millage and ask yourself if it's worth it.

Grayling Rotary Club supports Polio Plus program

In 1985 Rotary International established the Polio Plus program to eradicate polio worldwide with initial funding of $700 million.

The Grayling Rotary Club is one club that makes up 1.2 million Rotary members worldwide who participate in the program to eliminate this terrible disease.

Oct. 24 is World Polio Day marking the 98th anniversary of the birth of Jonas Salk, who invented the Polio Vaccine.

To recognize this anniversary and to participate in the Polio eradication effort, Dr. Mark Davey, president of the Grayling Rotary, and Brock Pratter, a Black Bear Bicycle Tour participant, presented Rotary District Governor Lody Swarensteyn with a $2,000 check for the Polio Plus program at The Bicycle Shop.

Swarensteyn is responsible for Rotary Clubs from Holland to WaWa Ontario, Canada. He has four decades of experience in health planning and community organizations.

The Grayling Rotary Club holds several fundraisers each year, which includes the Black Bear Bicycle Tour.

Pratter, a Grayling Special Olympian, rode and finished the 100-mile tour in nine hours and 37 seconds this year.

In the 1950's parents in America and worldwide lived with the fear that their children may contract the crippling disease polio.

In 1954, 1.8 million children were first vaccinated against polio in America. By 1957 fewer than 6,000 polio cases in the United States existed, but every day more than 1,000 new children in the rest of the world came down with the disease.

Over the last 27 years, Rotary International partnered with the World Health Organization, and more recently with the Gates Foundation, with helping to make many countries in the world polio free.

The long effort eliminated polio in all except four countries, Afghanistan, India, Nigeria and Pakistan.

Then, there were only three. India started 2012 with no reported cases of polio and has now passed the milestone of one year without a reported case. They accomplished this in no small part by immunizing 172 million children.

Home invasion suspects charged

by Dan Sanderson

Staff Writer

Three men face charges in Crawford County District Court for stealing a South Branch Township man's medications and guns and assaulting a teen.

Crawford County Sheriff Kirk A. Wakefield said deputies took three suspects into custody Friday for a home invasion that occurred at a residence in South Branch Township on the night of Tuesday Oct. 23.

Richard A. Sian, 37, of St. Helen, Timothy Alan Sian, 34, of Alger, and Joel Christopher Payne, 38, of Roscommon were arraigned in Crawford County District Court on Monday. All three men were charged with home invasion first-degree, weapons-firearms possession by a felon, assault with a dangerous weapons-felony assault, weapons felony firearms and malicious destruction of property less than $200. Prosecutors are also seeking to have the men sentenced as fourth-degree habitual offenders. They face up to 20 years in prison, if convicted. The men remain in the Crawford County Jail in lieu of posting $100,000 cash or surety bonds.

Wakefield said the home invasion involved assailants, wearing ski masks and black hooded sweatshirts. They kicked in a back door to a residence, where the homeowner, a friend and a 15-year-old male were watching television in the living room.

The assailants demanded the homeowner's medications and assaulted the teen with a wooden axe handle in the head.

The assailants left the residence with the homeowner's medications and a gun safe with four firearms inside.

Wakefield acknowledged citizens for calling into the sheriff's office tip line with helpful information about this case. Hard work and cooperation from the Roscommon County Sheriff's Department and Richfield Township Police Department also helped in apprehending the two suspects and tracking down other suspects in the case.

Issues and Opinions

Almanack

by Richard Milliman

Whew! This election has been a tough one

FOLLOWING ARE some random thoughts as the 2012 presidential, state and local election campaigns near an end.

Starting from the presidential race and in Michigan ending with the five proposed state constitutional amendments, this election year has produced the most expensive, pervasive and hard-fought campaigns I can recall.

It's really been a series of campaigns instead of a single one.

If all the money that has been raised and spent during this year's campaigns across the country were laid end to end, those dollars would make a big dent in our national debt.

From where does all this money come? It must mean our economy isn't doing so bad after all.

What do those individuals and corporations and unions and other groups who have poured so much cash into politics this year expect in return? I suspect it's something more than just good government.

Once the Supreme Court okayed both unlimited and anonymous political spending, the money flow has been crazy. There should be both contribution limits and donor identity or things will get even worse.

* * *

REALIZING THAT definition of a "dirty campaign" depends on who's doing the defining, I think campaigns in general have been at least smudged up a bit.

In the old days, one of the rules of campaigning was never to mention your opponent by name. Why give him/her publicity? That wasn't too long ago, either.

Now that's all out the window, and now it seems personal attacks on opponents have become the mainstay of campaigning, from the presidential candidates on down the line, including some local campaigns, too.

In my view, it's demeaning for the office holder to wallow in the campaign slosh along with the challenger, and that goes especially for the presidential level.

* * *

ON DEBATES - It's surprising that anyone survived the string of Republican presidential "debates" which started with about a dozen serious Republican possibilities standing shoulder to shoulder, questioning each other's abilities and hurling smears and lies back and forth, and watching the original string of candidates eliminate themselves week after week.

It was quite a spectacle, and not a very productive way for the party to spread harmony and fellowship and cooperation for the broader struggle ahead facing the incumbent president.

All in all, the three presidential debates were pretty well handled.

* * *

ONE THING the people of Michigan may learn from the voting on November 6 is how much it costs to buy an amendment to our state constitution.

The extreme example is Manuel (Matty) Moroun, the deep pocketed Detroiter who owns the Ambassador Bridge and who has invested several million dollars trying to force a constitutional amendment that would require both state and local voter approval for any new bridge. He has financed the cost of petitions and has paid for an aggressive TV advertising campaign, filled with inaccuracies, pushing for a "Yes" vote.

If he wins, his campaign will set the standard for the cost of buying your own amendment to the state constitution.

* * *

OTHER GROUPS have put up considerable cash for amendments tailored for their special interests.

Several labor unions have united to pay for proposals to protect or to create union monopolies. Again, heavy spending has been required to collect the signatures and to run questionable ads urging their adoption.

The power business is in the special interest amendment act, too, with a bid to change existing laws relating to renewable energy sources, accompanied by an expensive advertising campaign.

If any of these amendments should be adopted, it sends the signal that our state constitution is for sale, one amendment at a time.

The question will be how much does an amendment cost, and how much disinformation can your own special interest get away with.

Washington Notes

By Carl Levin, U.S. Senator (D-Michigan)

Park's birthday celebrates Copper Country heritage

Twenty years ago, a bill I sponsored in the Senate became law, creating the Keweenaw National Historical Park in the Upper Peninsula. Recently, I joined park officials and the Keweenaw community in celebrating the park's 20th birthday.

This park is a gem that celebrates the story of a mineral – copper – and the communities that sprung up here because of the area's mineral riches.

This story goes back to prehistoric times. The Keweenaw is the only area in the country where prehistoric peoples mined copper. Artifacts made from Keweenaw copper nearly 7,000 years ago were traded as far south as what is now Alabama.

The more recent story of copper in this region dates to the 19th century, when immigrants from all over the world flocked here to mine the copper, build their homes, raise their families, and establish the wonderful communities that still are there today.

The story of Copper Country, like that of the economy that copper helped build, is in part, one of astounding technology. The park preserves massive structures used to bring copper to the surface and begin processing the raw ore.

But even more than the technology, we stand in awe of the enormous hard work, dedication and skill of the miners themselves. Ultimately, it is people – people like the miners of the Keweenaw – who powered the industrial revolution.

Workers swarmed into the Copper Country from Cornwall in England, Ireland, Germany, Canada, Italy, Finland, Croatia, Slovenia and China. Indeed, each decade's census of the Keweenaw Peninsula showed a changing ethnic composition with a diversity that eventually numbered nearly 40 different nationalities.

The immigrant communities each brought a piece of their homeland with them to the Copper Country as evidenced in the architecture, foods and traditions.

Churches of many denominations – including Roman Catholic, Methodist, Episcopal, Congregational, Presbyterian and Lutheran – provided a spiritual home to the miners and their families.

We cannot afford to lose that rich heritage. And yet, in the 1970s and '80s, the physical reminders of Copper Country history were at risk of being lost.

These buildings, and the history they hold, are irreplaceable. That is why establishing park 20 years ago was so important.

In the two decades since, many historic buildings have been preserved and renovated. The National Park Service owns six buildings within the park boundaries, and has partnered with 19 other organizations operating 26 other sites – the Keweenaw Heritage Sites – to preserve and celebrate the cultural and natural resources of the area.

The people of the Keweenaw were instrumental in establishing this park, working closely with local and federal officials to respect the region's past while protecting its present and future economic potential.

The people and institutions of the region continue to work closely with the Park Service in the unique arrangement between the park and partners at the many privately owned heritage sites.

But our work is far from over.

Funding is one of the key issues. Because this is one of the newer parks within the National Park Service, it still needs support to acquire, preserve and interpret additional historic properties such as the Quincy Smelter. Over the past ten years, national funding for such projects has been cut in half, which hampers progress at this park and others across the nation. With the help of private philanthropy, I hope we can reverse this trend and act as good stewards for the natural, cultural and historic treasures in our care.

Like a gem, Keweenaw National Historical Park has many facets. It tells a powerful story of hope and opportunity as well as struggle. Most of all, it offers us an appreciation for our past and an inspiration for our future.

Carl Levin is the senior U.S. senator from Michigan and chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Local resources help residents living with diabetes

Every 17 seconds, another person is diagnosed with diabetes.

Recent numbers by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reveal diabetes kills more people each year than breast cancer and AIDS combined. Estimates project that possibly one in three American adults will have diabetes by 2050.

The American Diabetes Association has designated November as National Diabetes Month.

In northern Michigan, educating residents about the disease continues to be a priority. Mercy Hospital Grayling's Diabetes Education program helps patients learn how to manage the disease, improve their blood sugar control, and enjoy a healthier lifestyle.

America's Favorite Idol Bo Bice to perform at KCPA

Kirtland Center will present one of today's most versatile musical acts, Bo Bice. He may have been a top vote getter on American Idol, but he has become a unanimous crowd pleaser since then. His music can be described as soulful, gospel-tinged country rock that represents the maturation of a songwriter and a performer.

Bice's music reflects the influence of legendary performers from Van Morrison, James Taylor, and Gram Parsons to the Black Crowes and Lenny Kravitz, most of whom have contributed to his most recent recordings. Bice topped the charts with "Inside Your Heaven," from his 2005 debut album The Real Thing and has gone on to tour and record with the likes of Lynyrd Skynyrd, Willie Nelson and Carlos Santana.

Bice will perform at the Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts in Roscommon, Saturday, Nov. 10, at 8 p.m. Tickets are $35 and $30. Call the box office at 989-275-6777 or buy on line at www.kirtlandcenter.com.

Child care is available on the campus of Kirtland Community College during the show by reservation only through box office. Or call the Warbler's Nest child care center at 989-275-6733.

The Bible Speaks Truth or Lies

Truth, beauty, and goodness are virtues we all appreciate. God has transcended the natural realm to enable us to know and appreciate these virtues. Because God created us in His own image, He made us to be naturally attracted to truth, beauty and goodness, and repulsed by lies, ugliness, and evil. The ability to believe that such a contrast in values even exists is evidence God created all of us as moral beings.

We are constantly challenged in this world by conflicting forces either promoting truth or lies, beauty or ugliness, goodness or evil. The choices we make will affect the character and conduct of ourselves, our families, and our nation. Our choices will determine our present and future welfare.

All other creatures on earth are governed by what we call instinct. Animals were programmed by their creator to obey. Humans alone were created in the image of God and therefore given the ability to choose; But, with this privilege comes responsibility. You and I must decide what we will believe and what we will do with our lives. One word can best characterize our unique and glorious privilege -- freedom! Through faith in His word, God gives us freedom to know Him, to glorify Him and to enjoy Him forever!

Our nation was founded upon belief in God-given freedom. Our Declaration of Independence declares that our unalienable rights of life, liberty, and property are the gifts of our creator God. Our U.S. Constitution was written to give us laws to protect these freedoms. Our success as a nation is one proof God has blessed us. Our Bible remains the foundational truth that undergirds all of our virtues and rights.

But why are we constantly being confronted with lies, ugliness, and evil? Evil originated by the choice of one person, Lucifer. Read the record of Lucifer's sin and fall in Isaiah 14:12-14. Lucifer became the devil because of his sin. Jesus said of him in John 8:44: "...He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it." Satan's first words to Eve in the Garden of Eden were in the form of a question that implied a lie in Genesis 3:1: "Yea, hath God said?" Satan first questioned God's integrity. Then Eve made a choice to believe and accept Satan's lie and reject God's truth. "And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil." (Genesis 3:4,5)

Many in America believe the foundational document upon which our nation was born, the Declaration of Independence, is now antiquated and irrelevant because it declares God as the source of truth, unalienable rights, and freedom. Many of us still believe and trust in God, the Bible, the Declaration of Independence, and the U.S. Constitution. Elijah once reminded Israel of such a choice in 1 Kings 18:21: "21 And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word." May we choose God's blessings of truth, beauty, goodness, and freedom through which He has made us great. Pastor "B"

Men charged for killing buck

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Two Grayling men were charged in Crawford County District Court Tuesday for illegally shooting a big buck located on the property of a private hunting lodge.

John William Baker Jr., 27, and Terrence Patrick Nephew, 44, were arraigned in Crawford County District Court on Tuesday.

Baker faces charges of larceny of $20,000 or more, weapons-firearms possession by a felon, weapons felony firearms and trespassing. He faces up to five years in prison, if convicted.

Prosecutors are also seeking to have the men sentenced as second-offense habitual offenders.

Crawford County Sheriff Kirk A. Wakefield said Deputies were called to the Valhalla Hunting Lodge in Lovells Township at 11:50 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 28, regarding the theft and killing of a 21-point, large antlered white tailed deer. The hunting lodge is owned by Charles Keifer.

Deputies acting on information gathered at the scene were able to locate several suspects in the case.

After the investigation, the antlers were recovered and Baker confessed to illegally taking the deer. The buck is valued at $30,000, Wakefield said.

A fence at the hunting lodge was damaged in order to steal the buck, which was dismembered.

Baker and Nephew remain in the Crawford County Jail in lieu of posting $15,000 cash bonds.

Michigan Department of Natural Resources Conservation Officers and K9 Units from the Michigan State Police assisted Deputies in solving this case.

~ Vote Cheryll Ruley ~
For the new District 2
(Beaver Creek Twp. and Precinct 302 of Grayling Twp.)
Crawford County Commissioner

Look to the candidate who has made being involved in her community a point since moving here in 1995. Having served on the boards of numerous non-profit organizations, and through her volunteer efforts, Cheryll has shown her caring spirit for the residents of this county, both human and animal.

Her years spent as a reporter for the Crawford County Avalanche allowed her to see the inner workings of local government on all levels, and has helped educate and inform her on the hard decisions that our county commissioners have to make. Cheryll is motivated by the strong sense of community she feels as a resident of Crawford County, and her desire to see success reach every area of the county.

She knows that change can be scary, but as a Navy wife, Cheryll maintains her strength and composure when facing difficult times, and knows that to go from good to great it means hard work and facing the unknown with your head held high.

Cheryll Ruley believes in and supports each and every person who lives in Crawford County. She doesn't believe in cliques, popularity contests, and petty drivel. She sets all that aside and studies the bigger picture.

Cheryll Ruley is honest, caring, hardworking, and understands the hard times small communities like ours are facing and is always looking for the best solutions to benefit all.

We should know. She's our Mom. We hope you elect her. Karyn and Kim Ruley

Veterans need help getting more benefits, advocates say

by Edith Zhou
Capital News Service

LANSING — Michigan ranks last among the 50 states on veteran's funding per capita, according to a federal report.

Veterans in the state received $2.2 billion in veterans funding, for an average of $3,409 per capita in 2010, while the national average was $4,894 per capita.

The state also ranks below in per veteran expenditures for compensation and pensions, education, vocational rehabilitation and medical care.

However, some experts view the ranking differently.

James Topps, the director of the American Legion Department of Michigan, questioned the federal figures and said the state actually ranks 14th.

Michigan has the 11th largest veteran population, accounting for 7.1 percent of the state's population, according to the state's Department of Military and Veterans Affairs.

The largest proportion of Michigan veterans is from the Vietnam era, and half of them are between the ages of 50 and 70.

Topps said the reason that Michigan has negative-appearing numbers is because Michigan is an industrial state. "Most of the veterans are in industry so they don't need the health care from Veterans Affairs like other states do."

Garth Wootten, the president of the Michigan Association of County Veterans Counselors, cited reasons beyond the state's control.

"We are not a retirement state and we don't have a large military base here so we don't have many retired veterans coming back to live. Also we don't have as many younger veterans as other states do — these are the people who get higher benefits from the government," he said.

Suzanne Thelen, the department's public information officer, said lost jobs are also one of the reasons.

"In the past, many veterans may not have needed or chose not to apply for benefits because they were employed, many in the auto industry, and had access to benefits at their workplace.

"Once they retire or lose their jobs, they may be unfamiliar with veterans benefits still available to them, years after their service to the country ended," she said.

Additionally, many veterans aren't aware they qualify for a variety of benefits.

"Younger veterans are less connected to veteran service organizations than veterans in the past, and may not be getting information regarding benefits available to them and how to access them," Thelen said.

She said the department has made it a priority to increase awareness of benefits available and how to apply for them.

Angela Simpson, the public affairs officer for the Michigan National Guard, said that the state department can't decide how the money is distributed.

"Veterans' benefits are federally funded and distributed so we can beef up information distribution a million percent, but the actual distribution of benefits is not within state control," she said.

"It stands to reason that improved documentation and eligibility on the front should, in turn, increase benefit distribution — but that remains to be seen," Simpson said.

There are several programs available to veterans, both through the state and locally.

For example, the state offers assistance such as property tax waivers, children's tuition assistance, and reduced-cost hunting, fishing and camping licenses to qualified disabled or injured veterans.

Additionally, the state will spend $400,000 over the coming year to reach out to veterans enrolled in educational and vocational programs.

Wootten said all county veterans offices are working hard and offer many programs and services.

"Some counties such as Ingham and Macomb are doing a separate veteran courts system to help them with judicial issues," he said.

The department also has a long-standing partnership with the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Purple Heart, Marine Corps Legion and the Disabled American Veterans. These groups receive $2.9 million a year to provide counseling to veterans.

"I hope more counties would pay more money to the county veteran service offices and the public and government could show more support to these veterans organizations, and that may raise our ranking," Wootten said.

Topps said, "We are fighting all the time to get more benefits for veterans. Most of our veterans are from the Vietnam War who still enjoy those benefits."

Both Thelen and Simpson said the department is making efforts to do a better job.

"I know this is a hot-button issue for the adjutant general, and taking care of veterans, especially injured and unemployed veterans, is at the very top of his priority list," Thelen said.

"Hopefully in the near future we will be able to move out of last place in terms of veterans benefits use," Simpson said.

Candidates running for local positions on Nov. 6

Less than a half of a dozen races will be decided for county and township political positions as most of the focus remains on deciding the presidential race and federal and state offices.

The lone political race for Crawford County is for the District Two Commissioner's seat. Republican Sharon Priebe and Cheryll Ruley, who is running as a no-party affiliation candidate, are vying for a two-year term on the Crawford County Board of Commissioners. Ruley was appointed to fill a vacancy on the county board in June.

In Beaver Creek Township, five residents are running for two trustee seats on the township board.

Anne Goscicki and Debra Friedman are running as republican candidates, while John L. Chad is running as a democrat. James LaPradd and Incumbent Trustee James Madill are running as no-party affiliation candidates.

Five residents are running for four, four-year seats on the Graying Charter Township Board. Incumbent Trustees Duane Brooks, Dennis J. Long, R. Bruce Zalobsky and JoAnn Michael, who was the only candidate to run for trustee's position on the board in the August primary election, are being challenged by no-party affiliation candidate Harry C. Wojcik.

In Lovells Township, Incumbent

Township Supervisor Gary A. Neumann is being challenged by democrat Randy Long. Four residents are running for two trustee positions on the Lovells Township Board. Incumbent Trustee Annette Stimpson and Heather Lovell are running as republicans, while incumbent Delphine R. Nowacyk and Glenn Alan Robertson are running as democrats.

Voters will decide state, local proposals

Crawford County voters will be asked to vote on six state proposals at the general election polls on Tuesday, Nov. 6 along with the Crawford County Road Repair Millage proposal and the non-homestead tax renewal for the Crawford AuSable School District.

State proposals two through five asks voters if the Michigan Constitution should be amended. Proposal One asks voters to decide if Michigan's Emergency Manager Law should be upheld. And Proposal Six asks if voter approval is needed before the State of Michigan can spend funds for new international bridges or tunnels.

Following is the ballot language for all of the state proposals and the two local proposals:

PROPOSAL SECTION
STATE
PROPOSAL 12-1
A REFERENDUM ON PUBLIC ACT 4 OF 2011 - THE EMERGENCY MANAGER LAW
Public Act 4 of 2011 would:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Establish criteria to assess the financial condition of local government units, including school districts. Authorize Governor to appoint an emergency manager (EM) upon state finding of a financial emergency, and allow the EM to act in place of local government officials. Require EM to develop financial and operating plans, which may include modification or termination of contracts, reorganization of government, and determination of expenditures, services, and use of assets until the emergency is resolved. Alternatively, authorize state-appointed review team to enter into a local government approved consent decree.
Should this law be approved?

PROPOSAL 12-2
A PROPOSAL TO AMEND THE STATE CONSTITUTION REGARDING COLLECTIVE BARGAINING
This proposal would:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Grant public and private employees the constitutional right to organize and bargain collectively through labor unions. Invalidate existing or future state or local laws that limit the ability to join unions and bargain collectively, and to negotiate and enforce collective bargaining agreements, including employees' financial support of their labor unions. Laws may be enacted to prohibit public employees from striking. Override state laws that regulate hours and conditions of employment to the extent that those laws conflict with collective bargaining agreements. Define "employer" as a person or entity employing one or more employees.
Should this proposal be approved?

PROPOSAL 12-3
A PROPOSAL TO AMEND THE STATE CONSTITUTION TO ESTABLISH A STANDARD FOR RENEWABLE ENERGY
This proposal would:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Require electric utilities to provide at least 25% of their annual retail sales of electricity from renewable energy sources, which are wind, solar, biomass, and hydropower, by 2025. Limit to not more than 1% per year electric utility rate increases charged to consumers only to achieve compliance with the renewable energy standard. Allow annual extensions of the deadline to meet the 25% standard in order to prevent rate increases over the 1% limit. Require the legislature to enact additional laws to encourage the use of Michigan made equipment and employment of Michigan residents.
Should this proposal be approved?
YES	◀
NO	◀
PROPOSAL 12-4
A PROPOSAL TO AMEND THE STATE CONSTITUTION TO ESTABLISH THE MICHIGAN QUALITY HOME CARE COUNCIL AND PROVIDE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FOR IN-HOME CARE WORKERS
This proposal would:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Allow in-home care workers to bargain collectively with the Michigan Quality Home Care Council (MQHCC). Continue the current exclusive representative of in-home care workers until modified in accordance with labor laws. Require MQHCC to provide training for in-home care workers, create a registry of workers who pass background checks, and provide financial services to patients to manage the cost of in-home care. PROPOSAL 12-5
A PROPOSAL TO AMEND THE STATE CONSTITUTION TO LIMIT THE ENACTMENT OF NEW TAXES BY STATE GOVERNMENT
This proposal would:

PROPOSAL 12-6
A PROPOSAL TO AMEND THE STATE CONSTITUTION REGARDING CONSTRUCTION OF INTERNATIONAL BRIDGES AND TUNNELS
This proposal would:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Require the approval of a majority of voters at a statewide election and in each municipality where "new international bridges or tunnels for motor vehicles" are to be located before the State of Michigan may expend state funds or resources for acquiring land, designing, soliciting bids for, constructing, financing, or promoting new international bridges or tunnels. The proposed millage is a renewal of an existing millage for maintenance and repair of roads under the jurisdiction of the Crawford County Road Commission. The amount of revenue the County of Crawford will collect if the millage is approved and levied by the County in the first calendar year is estimated to be $560,000.00.

Archaeologists shed new light on ancient farming, university history

by Lauren Gibbons

Capital News Service

LANSING — On the surface, Michigan might not seem like the nation's most historic place.

But to many archaeologists and other experts, the state holds a wealth of evidence about the past and remains an important player in providing insights to the past.

For example, new developments in the archaeological world include research on ancient farming practices in Michigan and elsewhere in the region.

"We're doing a lot of things that other places haven't done yet," said Lynne Goldstein, an anthropology professor at Michigan State University, which hosted the latest Midwest Archaeological Conference.

Findings gathered from archaeologists suggest that ancient farmers implemented several domesticated foods and agricultural practices much earlier than previously predicted, said MSU anthropology professor William Lovis, who curated the farming exhibit at the conference.

The exhibit is on display at the MSU Museum in East Lansing.

Lovis said different and more modern methods of approaching archaeological sites, helped with the discoveries, including a new process called accelerator mass spectrometer dating, that lets researchers more accurately determine the age of tiny fragments of material.

Lovis cited Michigan

archaeologists as forerunners in the area.

Domesticated crops in Michigan were being used as early as 4,000 years ago. Squash is the earliest known crop, and sunflowers and corn were close behind.

New evidence suggests corn was first grown in Michigan more than 2,000 years ago, as opposed to previous estimates of 1,400 to 1,500 years.

"This is breaking news on the origin of food production," Lovis said. "We're exploring very current methods of approaching these issues, and it's clear the timing and spread of crops like corn and squash go further back than we thought."

Programs such as Campus Archaeology, a course run by Goldstein that allows students to excavate areas of MSU's campus, was also highlighted at the conference as an innovative way to train archaeologists while preserving pieces of university history.

In July, the team discovered a forgotten wall of a boiler room built in 1900 near Morrill Hall that was not shown on construction maps.

New developments about practices of ancients and previous generations can capture the attention of the public, MSU Museum communications manager Lora Helou said.

Archaeological exhibits help the public better understand true impact on a state with such a rich history, she said.

US Forest Service waives fees during Veterans Day weekend

The U.S. Forest Service is waiving fees at most of its day-use recreation sites over the Veterans Day holiday weekend, Nov. 10-12.

The fee waivers, the fourth this year, are offered in cooperation with other federal agencies under the Federal Lands Recreation Enhancement Act. Day-use fees will be waived at all standard amenity fee sites operated by the Forest Service. Concessionaire operated day-use sites may be included in the waiver if the permit holder wishes to participate.

"This is our way of saying thanks to the brave men and women – past and present – who put their lives on the line every day to keep us safe at home," said U.S. Forest Service Chief Tom Tidwell. "We encourage veterans, their families and all visitors to take time out over the holiday weekend to enjoy the benefits that nature provides at forests and grasslands throughout the country."

The fee waiver days support the goals of President Obama's America's Great Outdoors initiative and First Lady Michelle Obama's "Let's Move Outside."

Traditionally, fees are not charged on 98 percent of national forests and grasslands, and approximately two-thirds of developed recreation sites in national forests and grasslands can be used for free. Many recreation opportunities such as camping, sightseeing and hiking can be enjoyed throughout the year at no cost.

The Forest Service operates approximately 17,000 developed recreation sites nationwide. Of those, approximately 6,000 require recreation fees, which are used to provide visitor services, repairs and replacements, and facilities maintenance.

LANSING — Michigan has one of the highest obesity rates in the nation — 32 percent of adults and 17 percent of youths are obese.

Now the state plans a new campaign on television, radio and the Internet to guide the public in a healthier direction, as well as to recognize success stories of those who have changed their lifestyle.

"Recognition motivates people and if we can get people motivated, then this will be a great healthy future for Michigan," said Nathan Ohle, director of outreach and development for the Michigan Fitness Foundation.

To achieve that goal, the Department of Community Health is using its new 4 x 4 plan, which incorporates four key healthy behaviors and four key health measures.

"This plan will help us, help Michiganders, through a bunch of different mediums," said James Haverman, director of Community Health.

Statistics show that obesity has almost doubled since 2005. If this trend continues, half of Michigan residents will be obese by the year 2030.

Obesity directly impacts overall health and causes many chronic illnesses.

And it's more than just being overweight, said Angela Minicuci, department public information officer.

"Obesity can cause many chronic diseases like type 2 diabetes, arthritis, strokes, heart disease, certain cancers and even dementia," Minicuci said.

With chronic illness come additional medical expenses that take a financial toll on families and employers.

According to the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, a majority of health care costs are associated with chronic diseases, Minicuci said.

The department wants the public to be aware of key health indicators that are closely tied to chronic diseases: body mass index (BMI), blood pressure, cholesterol level, blood sugar and glucose level.

"The four health measures are something people should know like they know their name. Each of them has a different impact on the body and are important to our well-being," Minicuci said.

The plan outlines key healthy behaviors: a healthy diet, regular exercise, an annual physical and avoiding tobacco use and exposure to secondhand smoke.

The department has reached out to school districts to help with obesity problem.

For example, Big Rapids Public Schools Food Service has stepped up and changed its menu options.

"This year we are now serving more fruits and veggies to students," director Bob King, said. "There is a problem with it though — that is not what students are looking for."

King said there seems to be more waste than consumption some days.

"We are required by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Michigan Department of Education to limit the calories of meals to 800 calories so we have smaller portions and less people purchasing meals," he said. "I think the plan is working, but also backfiring. Kids are hungry and we can only do so much."

Ohle, of the Fitness Foundation, said, "It is not just about what you eat. It's about how you get out there and move. Exercise is such an important component, but many people are confused on what exercise truly is."

Ohle said exercise is about getting up and moving.

"Running, biking and swimming are not the only things that can be considered, but tennis and dance can also be added into your daily activities," Ohle said. "Even a walking group with co-workers is a start."

The foundation has used the 4 x 4 plan and teamed up with the department to publicize the Pure Michigan Fitness Series.

"This is a website where you can plug in your location and find activities all around you and be able to be active in your community," he said.

Ohle said the department is "taking it to the streets" by contacting schools and working in physical education classes and classrooms to promote more activity.

"If we can help kids at a young age, obesity will not be a problem when they are older," he said.

The plan is in place for five years, but Minicuci said the department is committed to the long haul.

"It took over 50 years to reduce smoking in Michigan. Obesity will hopefully decrease faster, but we are ready to help the state change how they work, play and live and make it a healthier place to be," she said.

Hurricane Sandy related winds snarls train traffic

Above, high winds caused a tree to fall across the train tracks located near Michigan Avenue Tuesday afternoon, halting a Lake State Railway Company train coming through Grayling. Hurricane Sandy, which hammered the East coast, has resulted in high winds, sleet, rain and chilly temperatures in northern Michigan. Rain and cold temperatures are expected to continue until the end of this week.

More farms up north mean opportunity, development

by Edith Zhou
Capital News Service

LANSING - More farming opportunities have come to northern Michigan this year because of climate changes and global warming, agriculture experts say.

According to the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development, Michigan is home to 10 million acres of farmland, but only 10 percent is in the northern parts.

Department Director Jamie Clover Adams said there are additional farming opportunities in the north (both the Upper Peninsula and the northern Lower Peninsula) and that there is a trend of more acres being farmed in those regions.

"In theory that would mostly be rooted in climate change enabling a longer growing season for areas in northern Michigan," Jeremy Nagel, the media relations specialist for the Michigan Farm Bureau, said.

Nagel said that agriculture in the Upper Peninsula is actually quite easy. "Agriculture up there is mostly hay, some small grains, potatoes, beef cattle and dairy. When you reach the Lower Peninsula, that diversity shoots up to include all the yummy fruit such as apples, cherries and apricots."

Jennifer Holton, the director of communications for the agriculture department, said, "With increased farming opportunity comes additional regional economic activities such as the new grain elevator built in Standish and corn hybrids in Ogemaw County."

Jim Zook, the executive director of Michigan Corn, said the new technologies help corn expand north.

"We are creating more varieties such as hybrids which have shorter maturity time," he said.

Zook also said that the higher farmland prices in southern Michigan are another reason agriculture is moving north.

Nagel also mentioned another reason for the limiting expansion is the ownership of those lands.

"People are expanding out to make the best uses of these lands since they are far more expansive now."

Both Holton and Nagel

said that the "movement" of agriculture north should be seen more as an expansion than a migration.

"Even if they did sell their southern Michigan farm, that land would most likely be bought up by other farmers who're staying put and looking to expand their operation," Nagel said.

Nagel also said that the expansion of farming up north is likely to remain relatively limited.

"The viability of agriculture in northern Michigan is constrained by more factors than just climate. There are substantial pockets of farming throughout northern Michigan, but because the soils up there are overall less suitable for crop cultivation, the expansion would be quite limited," Nagel said.

Nagel also mentioned another reason for the limiting expansion is the ownership of those lands.

"Millions of acres of those forests are off limits to private ownership because they're owned and maintained by the government — set aside as state or national forest land. So even if the climate changed significantly and the soils magically improved, agricultural growth up there would still face the obstacle of inaccessible land resources," he said.

"I was given the gift of an even more rare color phase of the Serval," she said. "It was a glimpse of a beautiful melanistic cat that dashed off into the mountain moorland only to stop at a safe distance and look at us over its shoulder."

Diement used a combination of 10 photographs for the painting. Some photos came from Servals taken at a wildlife cat sanctuary in Florida. She also used photos of a specific spotting pattern she preferred, the curve of the cat's tail, its silhouette, the lighting and background.

"On occasion, I get lucky and I get a photograph that doesn't need a lot of changing," Diement said. "It's trying to put things together and make it believable in the end."

Diement said she was honored to win the award from such a diverse group of artists who all have the common thread of animal art.

"I never expected it, because the people that I idolized when I was a kid, they're the ones that win those awards," Diement said. "I'm just lucky to be in the show."

Diement said she is ready to work toward achieving master signature status with the Society of Animal Artists.

"I'll probably need another 60 years before I can do that," she said.

Rod Lawrence, a Kalkaska artist, has a painting called "Caribou Crossing" in the Art and the Animal 2012 exhibit. Roger Smith, from Jackson, has a bronze sculpture of a buck called "Got An Itch" in the exhibit.

All three artists have their work on display at the Main Branch Gallery, which Diement opened with Ken Wright, in May 2011.

"I think that's kind of neat that a couple of people from our gallery got in the show as well. It's an international collection of artists so we got a nice concentration of talented people right here with focus on the nature art," Diement said.

Flivvers outscore Grayling 22-7 in second half on Saturday

The Grayling Vikings lost 36-14 vs. the Kingsford Flivvers in a varsity football pre-district contest played at Kingsford on Saturday. Grayling turned the ball over five times in the contest, including a second half interception that the Flivvers returned for a touchdown.

Kingsford took an early lead, scoring on the first play from scrimmage with a 53-yard touchdown run. The Flivvers kicked the extra point and Kingsford led 7-0 with 11:50 left in the first period.

The Vikings started at their 35-yard line. Quarterback Jake Swander completed passes to Tyler McClanahan and Danny Schultz for a first down. Ty Jensen rushed for 25 yards on 2nd and 10. Swander ran for nine yards on the next play. The next two plays gained nothing. On 4th and 1, a QB sack ended the series on downs.

Kingsford took over at its 23-yard line. On the 10th play of the series - 3rd and 7 - Jensen intercepted a Flivver pass attempt.

On the first play of the resulting series, Kingsford got the ball back with an interception. The Flivvers punted on 4th and 7, putting Grayling at its 13-yard line.

A screen pass to Jensen on first down gained nine yards. Jensen ran for eight yards on 2nd and 1. Swander threw to Kevin Harris for a nine-yard gain. Grayling went for it on 4th and 1 and the pass attempt fell incomplete.

Kingsford started 38 yards from the goal line. The Flivvers finished the series with a one-yard TD run on 4th and goal - the 12th play of the drive. It was the third fourth down conversion on the possession; the Flivvers got a first down on 4th and 8 with a pass interference penalty and they rushed the ball for four yards on 4th and 1 later in the series, setting up a goal-to-go situation. Kingsford kicked the extra point. With 8:37 left in the second quarter, the Flivvers led 14-0.

Grayling went for it on 4th and 7, picking up a first down with a 24-yard pass from Swander to Harris. On the next play, Grayling fumbled the ball and Kingsford recovered it. The resulting series ended with a punt.

ON NOVEMBER 6

I'M VOTING YES
ON PROPOSAL 6.

Michigan communities are facing big challenges. We need more jobs, better schools, more cops and more firefighters.

But politicians are looking to spend our money on a new bridge to Canada.

Voting YES on 6 means they can't build a bridge unless we approve it.

It's our money and our future. It should be our choice.

On big decisions like the bridge, the people should decide. Simple as that.
